

Event Sponsorship Opportunity

Event: Washington Brownfields Redevelopment Conference
Reclaiming Our Communities

Presented by: Northwest Environmental Business Council (NEBC)
Washington State Department of Ecology

Date: October 7, 2010 (with pre-conference workshops Oct. 6)

Location: Greater Tacoma Convention and Trade Center, Tacoma, WA

Description

Returning for its third year, the 2010 Brownfields Redevelopment Conference will once again bring together the diverse parties that must collaborate to put contaminated properties back into productive use. This year's theme, Reclaiming Our Communities, reflects a focus on a community based integrated planning approach that looks at sites within a broader community development strategy. Given the current state of financial markets, the conference provides attendees with a realistic look at development opportunities, highlighting public projects and public/private partnerships – and the financial sources and tools that can support them.

Audience

This conference is designed for the full range of participants in redevelopment efforts, including:

- Local government & economic development staff
- Land developers and real estate agents
- Environmental engineers, consultants, and remediation experts
- Financers, lawyers, and insurance providers
- Environmental regulators
- Property owners

Content

Sessions address both planning and implementation topics, including:

- Taking a community approach to redevelopment
- Integrated planning in action
- Innovative financing options
- Anatomy of public/private partnerships
- Redevelopment options in today's economy
- Stakeholders and the redevelopment process
- Making public/private partnerships work
- Green stormwater management on BF sites
- Reducing the threat of NRDA's
- Update on regulatory issues
- Climate change and land use planning

Agenda and Speaker details coming soon to www.nebc.org
